Seattle Unity Board of Trustee
Candidate Introduction

Cindy McComish

I walked into Seattle Unity many years (30+) ago and I'm still here. I married and raised my family here and most importantly ground my life in God's goodness through Unity principles. Now it's my time to give back and you can trust me to work for the congregation as a whole. As an actively volunteering congregational member, retired law office receptionist and current board member, I look forward to serving another dedicated and responsible 3-year term. I will use Unity principles to create a foundation for spirit led action.

Our new building project has me very excited. My goal while working on the Board will be to help make our transition from our temporary location into our new spiritual home as smooth and community conscious as possible. We can expect lots of changes to our physical space and the structure of our programs, but I know our community can stay strong, prosperous and welcoming by paying attention to, and listening to, our collective voices. We will have visitors and returners who want to see what we're doing and how it's going. We need to welcome them as part of the "whole of our new spiritual home project". Together let's open our hearts so we can grow through this marvelous expansion project and into our new spiritual home.
