Seattle Unity Board of Trustee
Candidate Introduction

Faith Agee

I was adopted with my four siblings by my adoptive mother at age 7. I grew up with a loving family that had plenty of struggle but more than enough love to overcome everything that was thrown our way. I joined the US Navy as a Nuclear operator when I was 18. I served 6 years, 4 of those years I was stationed in Japan. After leaving the service, I was a Field Service Engineer for Lutron, I was a Data Center Engineer for Amazon, a Global Program Manager for Microsoft, and now I have decided to trust in spirit and start my own business. The 11 years I spent in the technical field led me here. Believe it or not, 17 years as a secular person led me here as well. I was raised Methodist and lost faith for many years of my life. Seattle Unity is a cornerstone in letting spirit back into my life.

Why I want to serve:

The 17 years I was secular were bleak. I did many great and exciting things, but never felt truly fulfilled. I wondered why I was here, and I stopped dreaming. I have dreamed of helping the world since I was a little girl. I put those dreams on pause and told myself, “someone else can do it, but not you.” When I moved to Seattle in 2018, I learned about the Law of Attraction through a friend. That friend led me to an astrologer in Poulsbo who pointed me in the direction of Seattle Unity.

I didn’t know it at the time, but Seattle Unity was 3 blocks away from where I was living. I think Spirit knew, if it was much further, I probably never would have shown up. I had so much resistance to church, the bible, and God still. I showed up on a day where Michael Bogar was talking about an apocalypse. I immediately signed up from the class, and to my surprise, three weeks later I found out my mom had cancer.

This community has felt like home since the moment I walked into the “emergency exit” of the old building. I was greeted by Donna Hutchinson, Gayle Macy, and Bonnie Pasek, which is the best welcoming committee you could buy.

I felt so much love and acceptance; and serving on the board means returning some of that love to the community who has helped me grow so much spiritually in the last two years. Serving on the board means showing spirit I am here, and I’m not going anywhere. I have many, many technical skills, but the skill I am honing the most is trusting in spirit. Spirit led me here, and I’m just getting started.
